EarthKind™ Roses

EarthKind™ roses have been selected by Texas A&M for having a high level of landscape performance coupled with outstanding disease and insect tolerance/resistance, and have been found to perform well in high humidity and about any kind of soil. Although not immune to pest problem, as long as you don't mind a few dropped leaves and a few black spots, you can get by without using any chemical sprays on these roses. See earthkindroses.tamu.edu for more information

Own Root Roses

White Wagon Farm recommends planting "own root roses" rather than grafted ones since they tend to be more vigorous and disease resistant.
